Weddings—Engagements.

Jackson-Bogan.

Tuesday evening Assembly's Presbyterian Church was the scene of a very pretty wedding, when Miss Vanette Louise Bogan and William Steel Jackson were married. Dr. George P. Wilson officiated and Mrs. Frank Skinner, a friend of the bride, presided at the organ. The guests were seated by the ushers—Storages Dunham, of New York; Samuel Daddow, of Pennsylvania; Clifford Bradley, Frederick Edmonds, Lawrence Sager and Dr. Baxter Morton. The bride, preceded by the maid of honor, entered the church on the arm of her uncle, Dr. Samuel W. Bogan, and was met at the altar by the groom and the best man, Joseph Borrows Bogan, the brother of the bride.

The bride looked very charming in a gown of white crepe de chine trimmed with antique applique lace and chiffon and carried a shower bouquet of sweet peas. The bride veil was fastened with sprays of orange blossoms. The sister of the bride, Miss Rose Mary Bogan, served as maid of honor, and wore a dainty gown of blue mousseline with platings of chiffon, and carried a bouquet of roses.

A reception at the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. Charlotte A. Bogan, of Massachusetts Avenue, followed the ceremony. Misses Julia S. Bogan, Annah Gray Bogan, Dorothy Slope, Elizabeth Johnson, Annabel Murphy, Grace Murphy and Agnes Scudder assisted. The popular bride received many and very valuable gifts from her numerous friends. Mr. and Mrs. Jackson left on a late train for an extended Northern trip.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. Walter C. Fearling and little daughter, of Norfolk, Va.; Mrs. William Bird Wyllie, Mrs. Henry Graves Noel and little daughter, of St. Louis, Mo.; Joseph Jackson, father of the groom, of Duncannon, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. McKenzie, of Scranton, Pa.; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Jackson, of Scranton, N. C.; Mrs. Charles Latham, of Fort Monroe, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Tolland, of Philadelphia; Mr. and Mrs. Coover, Miss Eubank and Mrs. Helena Ham, of Mount Vernon, Ill.

The engagement is announced of Miss Clara Swigert, daughter of Col. Samuel M. Swigert, U. S. A., to Lieut. Oliver P. M. Hazzard, Second Cavalry. The marriage will take place Wednesday, July 15, at San Francisco, where Colonel Swigert is stationed. Both young people are well known in army circles. Lieutenant Hazzard, who was associated with General Funston in the capture of Aguinaldo, is stationed at Fort Ethan Allen, Vermont, to which post he will bring his bride.

Lawn Fete.

Lawn Fete in Sherman Square.

The lawn fete held under the auspices of the United Societies of Patriotic Women of the District, on the corner of Fourteenth Street and Florida Avenue, has attracted large crowds on each of the two past evenings.

The Engineers' Band, under the leadership of Julius Kamper, plays throughout the evening. A fireworks show, a "carriage wagon" drawn by a gayly attired Jap, is one of the midway attractions, while a patient burro also affords much pleasure to the children.

The George H. Thomas Corps has spacious tents, in which coffee and luncheon are served each afternoon and evening from 4 until 7:30 o'clock. The Lincoln Corps has a "moss" table. The Burnside Corps has a luncheon table, and the Farragut Corps has many dainties for sale.

The Legion of Loyal Women has also prettily arranged quarters, from which they dispense ice cream and cake and other eatables. The two circles of the Ladies of the Grand Army of the Republic have attractive booths, as also have the ladies of the Union Veterans Union and the Edith K. Roosevelt Auxiliary to the Spanish War Veterans. The fete will be continued until Saturday evening.

The County Fair.

The county fair for the benefit of the Chevy Chase free library held last evening on the library lawn was a most enjoyable affair. Hundreds of Japanese lanterns were suspended from tree to tree, across the grounds. Mrs. Mix, assisted by Mrs. Clarence E. Dawson, Miss Kerr, Miss Bertha Dawson, Miss Mary McWhin, Miss Edith Malcom, Mrs.

ALIDA CORTELYOU ILL AND UNABLE TO APPEAR
Grace Atwell in Her Place at Eugene Ormonde's Benefit Tonight.

There was no performance last night at the Columbia Theater because of the illness of Alida Cortelyou, leading woman of the company now playing an engagement at that house. Miss Cortelyou has been confined to her apartments at the Shoreham since last Wednesday, and will probably not appear at the Columbia again this week.

The performance tonight will be a testimonial to Eugene Ormonde, leading man of the company, and the title role in "Camille" will be enacted by Grace Atwell.

THE SCHENECTADY WIZARD.

Mr. Steinmetz to Have Charge of an Electrical Laboratory and College.

I had the pleasure of meeting four or five corpses the other evening at the home of a distinguished resident of Schenectady. The corpses had been dead about a week, but they were sitting upright in chairs, their eyes were shining, and they were even talking—talking intelligently and good naturedly at that. Each knew that the other fellow was dead, but he never suspected it of himself.

Must I, then, explain that the corpses were not really dead? They only looked so. They were, in fact, people very much alive, and they had assembled in one of the rooms of the fine new house that Charles Proteus Steinmetz is building to discuss business and other matters.

The reason they looked dead is that Mr. Steinmetz elects to illuminate his residence by the mercury lamp. The mercury lamp is a long glass tube containing a few spoonful of quicksilver, and when the electric current is applied the metal is vaporized and driven through the tube, emitting in its luminous condition a strong, green glare. It is the green color that takes all other color out of many of the objects it shines upon. Not a particle of complexion is left to you. You are of a pasty substance, your lips are gray purple, your hair is faded, and when I looked at my hands I sneakingly wiped them on my coat tails so that the company should not see, wondering, as I did so, when and where I had fallen into a coal bin that they should look of such a hue as that. But there was no dirt on them—leastwise, not much. The black-fish mottlings on the palms and fingers were merely the areas of what in the sunlight is pink, but which under the baneful glare of green converts into the color of a dead man's hands. You don't realize that you have so much red upon you until you find that red turned black.

Mr. Steinmetz lighted another cigar, leaned forward on the table, supporting by both hands a head that is so full of brains that the General Electric Company pays $40,000 a year for the use of them, and smiled.

Mr. Steinmetz is to considerably increase his activities, because he is one

President Harper
DINES BANK OFFICERS

Brief But Prosperous Career of American National the Motive.

Robert N. Harper, president of the American National Bank, gave a dinner to the board of directors and employees of the bank at the Hotel Barton, Wednesday night. The object of giving this dinner was the celebration of a deposit balance of $510,122 and of loans and discounts of $488,301 at close of banking hours on June 30.

The American National Bank only began operations on May 4 last, and President Harper, as well as all the other officers and directors of the bank, are not a little proud of the good showing they are able to make after less than two months of business. Mr. Harper says in the history of banks in Washington no other institution has ever been able to make so gratifying an exhibit in so short a time.

At the dinner last night these facts were referred to and elaborated in many a pungent speech, although there were no set toasts. The menu was highly inviting and thoroughly enjoyed.

Those present were Robert N. Harper, president; William H. Saunders, first vice president; Charles A. Douglass, second vice president; R. H. Lynn, cashier; Edson B. Olds, assistant cashier; A. C. West, second assistant cashier; William Selby, paying teller; J. W. Williams, receiving teller; H. L. Stein, bookkeeper; D. L. Pitcher, Jr., bookkeeper; directors, Robert N. Harper, Blair Lee, Langbourne M. Williams, Edward O. Whitford, George E. Walker, Colin H. Livingston, Charles Kenyon, J. H. Cranford, J. Miller Kenyon, William H. Saunders, W. T. Gallihir, Joseph E. MEN'S SOCKS FOR WOMEN
APPROVED IN CHICAGO

CHICAGO, July 3.—The Woman's Medical Club, which includes in its membership 200 women physicians, took up the "men's socks for women" question and decided that it was a good thing for women to wear half hose. "They are cool and hygienically much to be preferred to the stockings now in vogue," said Dr. Frances Dickinson. "They do not bind the muscles of the knee," said Dr. Clara Westlake, "and men's garters are more common-sense affairs than the harness which women wear."

The work of the office went on with unusual rapidity during the past year, and an unusually large number of cases were handled.

A SUMMER GOWN.

A dainty summer toilet of linen lawn with Chantilly lace trimmings. Graceful lines are given the skirt by two rows of shirring—one at the waist and another just above the knees. Between the two rows are panels of lace medallions. Rows of shirring ornament the waist and sleeve, while a lace yoke and panels of medallions carry out the original scheme. A girdle of liberty silk and stone of the same material finish the costume.
